Attorney General Griffin Announces Arrest of Greenbrier Man for Possession of Child Sexual Abuse Materials

Griffin: 'Anyone who possesses or distributes CSAM can expect to be identified, arrested, and prosecuted by my office'

LITTLE ROCK – Attorney General Tim Griffin today issued the following statement after agents from his Special Investigations Division (SID) arrested Ethan Lee Clark, 27, of Greenbrier, on 30 felony counts of pandering or possession of visual or print medium depicting sexually explicit conduct involving a child:

“On June 24, SID executed a search warrant after discovering that Child Sexual Abuse Material (CSAM) was being downloaded and shared via a peer-to-peer network at Clark’s address. After conducting a digital forensic examination of the home, Clark was arrested and booked at the Faulkner County Detention Center.

“Anyone who possesses or distributes CSAM can expect to be identified, arrested, and prosecuted by my office. I applaud SID’s excellent work in investigating this case and the Greenbrier Police Department and Faulkner County Animal Services for their assistance in this arrest.”
